
Patient safety

Health Education England published the first NHS-wide Patient Safety Syllabus to provide enhanced patient safety training for all NHS employees.

It was written by Professor Peter Spurgeon and Dr Steve Cross on behalf of the Academy. It outlines a new approach to patient safety emphasising a proactive approach to identifying risks to safe care and the impact of the system on our ability to provide safe care.

Levels one and two learning materials will be available on the e-Learning for Healthcare platform from October 2021. The substantive training for those staff significantly involved in patient safety is currently under development and scheduled for completion in the first half of 2022.
